Noah Eaker to Join Flatiron Books As Editorial Director

(October 24, 2017 - New York, NY) Flatiron Books President Bob Miller and Publisher Amy Einhorn announced today that Noah Eaker will join Flatiron Books as Editorial Director on November 13th, reporting to Einhorn. Eaker was previously an Executive Editor at Random House.

Eaker has published a range of bestselling and award-winning fiction and non-fiction over his career, including The Tiger's Wife by Téa Obreht, which was the winner of The Woman's Prize and a finalist for the National Book Award, and The Return: Fathers, Sons and the Land in Between by Hisham Matar, which won the Pulitzer Prize for Biography or Autobiography in 2017. Recent bestsellers include The Last Days of Night by Graham Moore and The Twelve Lives of Samuel Hawley by Hannah Tinti; authors he's worked with include Elizabeth McCracken, Kelly Link, Julia Pierpont, David Mitchell, Leigh Bardugo and Josh Ritter.

According to Einhorn, "Noah has an unusual ability to publish both distinctive fiction and non-fiction, while breaking down the barriers that tend to separate 'literary' and 'commercial' books. Anyone who can edit both the Beastie Boys and Téa Obreht is someone worth betting heavily on. We're thrilled to be able to bet on Noah."

Says Eaker, "I've been admiring what Bob and Amy and their amazing team have built in such a short time at Flatiron, and I can't wait to work alongside them to bring the most talented authors in fiction and non-fiction to the widest possible audience."
